DMC Named a 2016 Top Workplace

Every year since 2011, Dickie, McCamey & Chilcote, P.C. ("DMC") has been recognized by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette as a "Top Workplace." This distinction is based solely on employee opinions gathered through surveys that measure workplace culture, including alignment, execution, and connection.

To determine the region's rankings, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette partnered with WorkplaceDynamics, LLC, which receives over a million completed surveys each year from over 4,000 organizations throughout the country. In the Pittsburgh area, "connection" and "alignment" were among the most important factors, while "pay and benefits" received ratings of least importance. The goal of the employee feedback is to provide performance improvement solutions to senior leaders.

Statements produced by DMC employees on the survey include, "They have mastered an incredible balance of authority and approachability; they are both in command but also a friendly face" and "great work environment." With 15 locations across nine states, Dickie

McCamey is proud to be a "Top Workplace" awardee for the past six years in the mid-size company category.
